Brenda Stein

A message from your Secretary,

This summer is flying by. Here we are preparing for archery season. Just a reminder to everyone to take precautions while working in the heat. Stay hydrated and watch for snakes!!!

If I have been slow to mail out renewals or membership cards, my Dad has been in and out of the hospital for nearly three months. He is doing much better now but still requiring much of my time.

I am excited about the upcoming year. Next year, in addition to being TBOT's 25th Anniversary, it will be my 10 year anniversary as secretary. I have truly enjoyed being a part of this club and have made some life-long friends ... amazing friends! With much mixed emotions, I am going to "retire" from my position in 2016. Taking care of family and my "day" job is all consuming. With all this being said, I am not leaving TBOT. I will help my replacement as much as needed. My job description simply stated, "The Secretary is responsible for minutes of Board Meetings and the maintenance of the organization's membership role, and replying to inquiries".

Often our members inquire why things are not done or why it takes so long. All of your current officers have day jobs. We take our vacation to put on events and juggle our "off" time to perform our duties. We do these things because we enjoy what we do and are committed to TBOT. Family and work still has to take priority. Simply said, we need help. We need to share the commitment. I know we have members out there who can help. Some tasks don't even require you to leave home and are not time consuming, difficult or costly. I would like to volunteer to chair a committee for the HCS. This event requires much preparation and planning. With someone to share the responsibilities, the secretary's position would be simple.

Our North Texas area has a large following of trad archers. We need another representative to help with the shoots. The same applies to East Texas with focus on the Houston area.

TBOT would greatly benefit from a volunteer to handle our social media. It's true, most of us are FB challenged!

Additionally, a volunteer to handle our merchandise (just one order a year). Our new Editor" Judy T" as most of you know her, has done an outstanding job with our newsletter. Judy called me on the way to Vanderpool for the HCS to ask how she and Roland could help. We had several long conversations and, in addition to helping with the shoot, Judy volunteered to take over the newsletter. If you have not done so, view it on the website, it's even better in color!! Thank you Judy, you're an asset to our team.

Please step up. Help us to promote our passion!

<http://www.foleycustombows.com/>

I am Ron Foley, owner and bowyer of Foley Custom Bows. I have been married to the love of my life, Theresa, for 34 wonderful years. I am blessed with two great children, Jennifer and Jeremiah, along with an amazing grandson named Carl.

I have shot bows all my life and always wanted to build one. In 1992 with encouragement from a good friend, I made my first bow. Since that time it has been a wonderful and ongoing journey where I have met many great people along the way.

I hunt almost anything with elk and whitetail deer being my favorite. I would love to hunt Alaska again. Maybe someday. I am a life member of Traditional Bowhunters of Texas and Compton Traditional Bowhunters.

I always strive to build the customer a bow that is unique and beautiful. I use many different American and exotic hardwoods in my bows. I prefer bamboo in my limbs for a bow that shoots better than they look. I look forward to meeting new people at the various shoots that I attend and visiting with the friends that I have made through this journey.

We appreciate our Sponsors. Each issue we will feature a sponsor; get to know them, support and thank them for their support to TBOT.

Bowfishing Records Are Made to Be Broken by Bob Morrison

Bowfishing records are made to be broken. This is similar to the old cowboy saying, "Not a horse that can't be rode; not a cowboy that can't be thrown."

Some bowfishing records - for the smallest species to the largest - withstand the age of time for decades before new records displace them. This includes private waters, Water Body Records, and State Records.

I've had the pleasure of holding a couple of Water Body Records for several years. One for more than fifteen years, and one for twenty-five. This doesn't bother me that they're broken; it just stimulates me to do more bowfishing. I'd rather bowfish than bowhunt for whitetail deer.

Here is a brief history of the two records that replaced mine. Both are for the Smallmouth Buffalofish, Ictiobus bubalus, a wide-ranging species in the U.S. It is found in most of Texas reservoirs, lakes, rivers, and streams, but with a very limited distribution - if any - in the Pan Handle.

In the Cross Timbers of Texas, there are many large lakes, and I live within an hour's drive or less from four excellent ones. Namely, near my home of Stephenville, there are four lakes: Palo Pinto, Proctor, Possum Kingdom, and Leon. They have large populations of buffalofish, European carp, longnose and spotted gar, gaspergou, and gizzard shad. To hunt just be legal when you launch your boat or step into the water to wade. And, dispose of the fish properly if you don't use them somehow. There are many uses for these fishes.

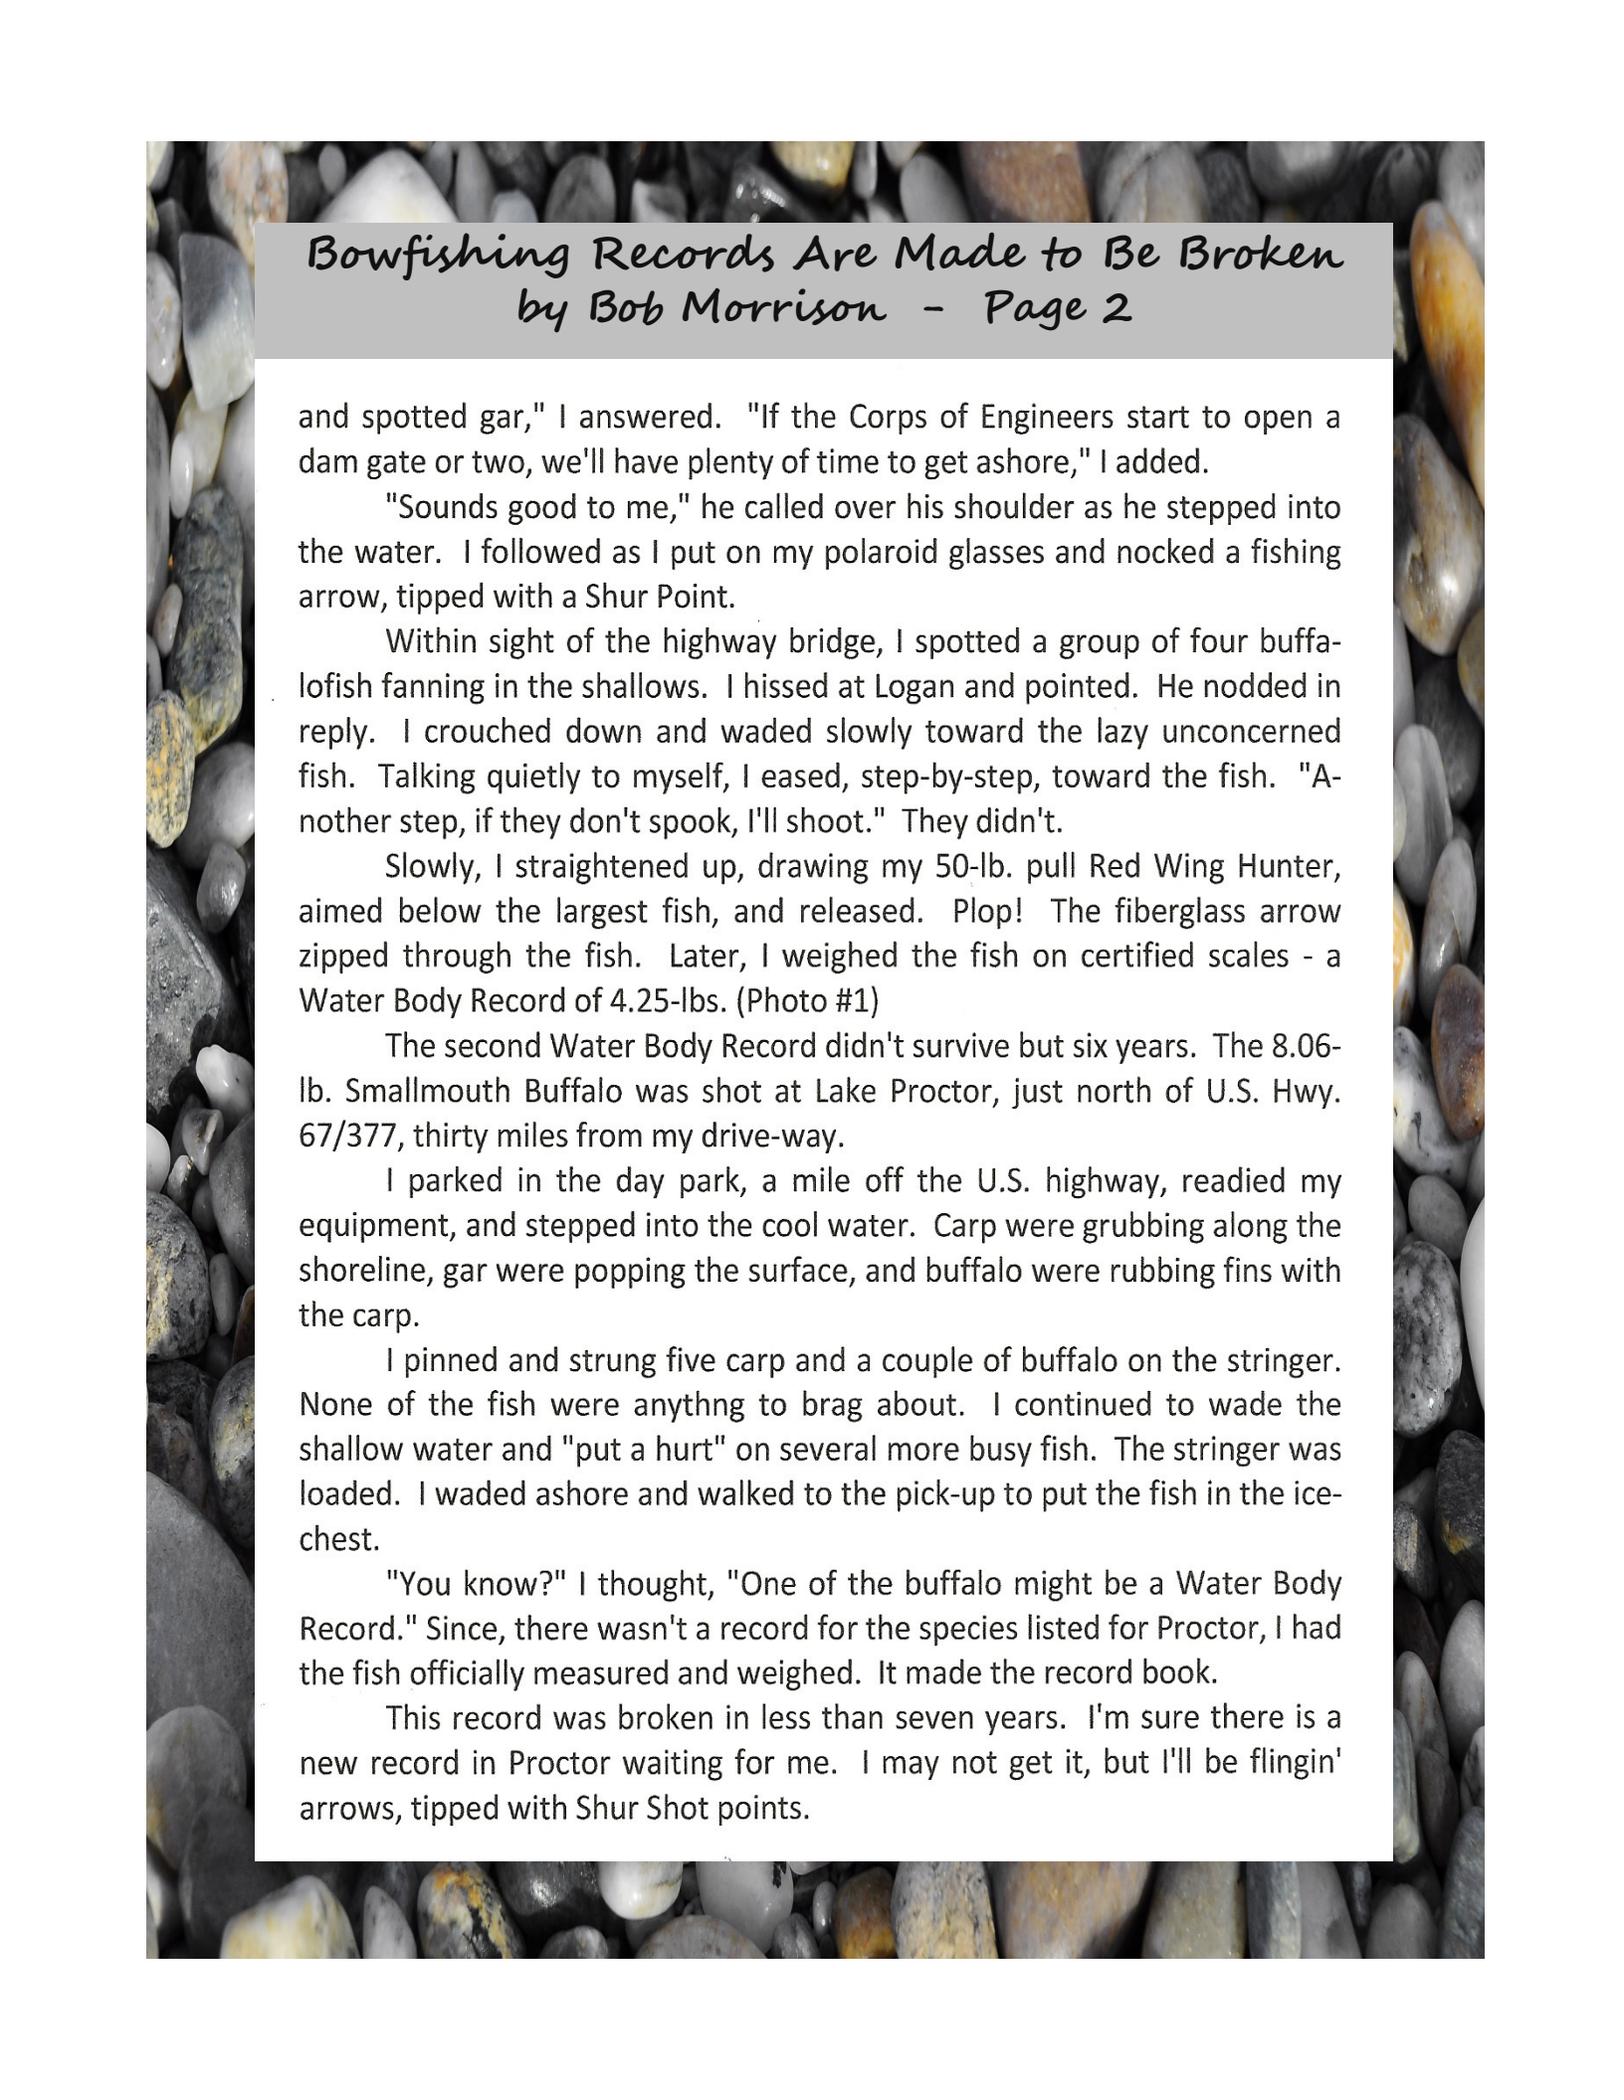

Of the lakes I casually mentioned, I'll start with a Smallmouth Buffalo Fish that I shot on July 9, 1975. The fish was rather small, but it withstood the age of time, until April 29, 2000, when a 11.15 pounder blasted my Water Body Record to pieces.

I was bowfishing with Logan Carpenter, a graduate student of Biology at Tarleton State University. It was a hot July day, and I parked my pick-up truck in the parking area at the SH 16 bridge over the Brazos River, below the Possum Kingdom dam.

As I strung my bowfishing rig, I said, "Logan, since you're not hunting, how about you take care of the camera work?" He agreed with a nod of his head and took the camera from the pick-up seat.

"Where you want to start?" he asked.

"I guess the shallow water on the north side of the bridge and make our way up to the spillway. It's not too far and good bowfishing for carp and spotted gar," I answered. "If the Corps of Engineers start to open a dam gate or two, we'll have plenty of time to get ashore," I added.

"Sounds good to me," he called over his shoulder as he stepped into the water. I followed as I put on my polaroid glasses and nocked a fishing arrow, tipped with a Shur Point.

Within sight of the highway bridge, I spotted a group of four buffalofish fanning in the shallows. I hissed at Logan and pointed. He nodded in reply. I crouched down and waded slowly toward the lazy unconcerned fish. Talking quietly to myself, I eased, step-by-step, toward the fish. "Another step, if they don't spook, I'll shoot." They didn't.

Slowly, I straightened up, drawing my 50-lb. pull Red Wing Hunter, aimed below the largest fish, and released. Plop! The fiberglass arrow zipped through the fish. Later, I weighed the fish on certified scales - a Water Body Record of 4.25-lbs. (Photo #1)

The second Water Body Record didn't survive but six years. The 8.06-lb. Smallmouth Buffalo was shot at Lake Proctor, just north of U.S. Hwy. 67/377, thirty miles from my drive-way.

I parked in the day park, a mile off the U.S. highway, readied my equipment, and stepped into the cool water. Carp were grubbing along the shoreline, gar were popping the surface, and buffalo were rubbing fins with the carp.

I pinned and strung five carp and a couple of buffalo on the stringer. None of the fish were anything to brag about. I continued to wade the shallow water and "put a hurt" on several more busy fish. The stringer was loaded. I waded ashore and walked to the pick-up to put the fish in the ice-chest.

"You know?" I thought, "One of the buffalo might be a Water Body Record." Since, there wasn't a record for the species listed for Proctor, I had the fish officially measured and weighed. It made the record book.

This record was broken in less than seven years. I'm sure there is a new record in Proctor waiting for me. I may not get it, but I'll be flingin' arrows, tipped with Shur Shot points.

Fig. #1 — Bob Morrison holds a 4 1/4-lb. Water Body Record Smallmouth Buffalofish, shot below Possum Kingdom dam, in the Brazos River near the SH16 bridge on July 9, 1975. A 11.15 pounder set a new record on April 29, 2000. (Photo by Logan Carpenter)

Fig. #2 — An 8.06-lb. Smallmouth Buffalofish Water Body Record, shot at Lake Proctor by Bob Morrison on July 9, 1997, was replaced by an 11.16 pounder on April 26, 2003. (Photo by Bob Morrison)
